

still

erin st breen

i tied your navy new year's sash into a bow over my closet, hiding forgotten purple zebra stripes, those textured black and the blue fuzzy socks you're woven into this thin house sick on the inside

about to come down